15. Multidisciplinary / interdisciplinary

The West Goalpara College offers CBCS courses that were conceptualised and structured by Gauhati University. The university creates syllabi that are used by the college to deliver instruction. These syllabi are divided into different parts, such as core courses, generic courses, elective courses, skill-based courses, application-based courses, discipline-specific courses, etc., and contain the contents of fundamentals, applications, experimental, and skill learning. All of these topics are covered in one subject under the two primary headings, Regular Course and Honours Course. Students can thus select their appropriate papers from the wide range of alternatives within the multidisciplinary subjects. Additionally, students have the option of selecting papers from several courses within the same stream. Students are free to study any subject in either the arts or sciences. The college offers 14 different courses in both the arts and sciences. In addition, the institution offers multidisciplinary classes like environmental studies, which are required of all honours students as well as regular students in the sciences and the arts. <http://www.westgoalparacollege.ac.in/upload/facility/1684826336.pdf>

16.Academic bank of credits (ABC):

Based on the New Education Policy (NEP), 2020, the academic bank of credits (ABC) concept and execution were developed in India. The NEP gives students a wide range of options, including the ability to select any paper from any topic and other amenities like ABC. A mechanism called an academic bank of credits (ABC) enables students to amass academic credits over time and apply them towards the conclusion of a degree programme. Students who might need to take a break from their studies, transfer to another institution, or follow a new academic programme have more freedom thanks to the academic bank of credits. The college should demand enrollment in the National Academic Depository (NAD) in order to introduce ABC. However, because West Goalpara College is a part of Gauhati University and the university does not use the system, the college was unable to apply for the Academic Bank of Credit through the National Academic Depository (NAD). However, in order to become experts, the college's instructors take part in several training programmes. To implement the ABC and NEP, the college is also making preparations and building the necessary digital infrastructures. As a result, the institution recently invested in about 50 computers and required professors and non-teaching employees to take an advanced course in computer applications as part of their professional development. <http://www.westgoalparacollege.ac.in/upload/facility/1684826293.pdf>

17.Skill development:

In accordance with Gauhati University's guidelines, West Goalpara College began offering CBCS courses in 2019. This course's curriculum places a strong emphasis on the student's skill development while also addressing other learning goals. The process of gaining or enhancing the skills, knowledge, and expertise required to successfully complete a particular task or employment is referred to as skill development. It is a continual process that calls for constant practice, learning, and feedback. A person may not be an expert and skilled in all fields of education because the body of information and curriculum continues to develop significantly with time. Taking this into account, the college places an emphasis on skill-oriented courses in addition to curricular activities because the current workplace environment only requires experts and skilled workers in all areas of the job. In order to do this, the West Goalpara College engages in the following skill-development activities and programmes, setting clear goals, locating resources, practising frequently, seeking feedback, and embracing failure.

1. Computer and digital skills: The College introduces a skill development course on computer education for students and non-teaching staff so that students can have the basic computer skill that can help students stay competitive in the job market.
2. Additional Courses: The different departments of the college host some short-term certificate courses, add-on courses, and value-added courses for specific skill development among the students and to increase the diversity of the courses within the college campus.
3. Hands-on learning experiences: The West Goalpara College provide students with practical, hands-on learning experiences in their field of study. This may include laboratory work, fieldwork, and research projects. These types of experiences help students to develop practical skills, such as problem-solving, critical thinking, and communication.
4. Extracurricular Activities: Students are motivated to participate in extracurricular activities like different sports to provide the opportunity to develop leadership, teamwork, and communication skills.
5. Vocational skill: The College offers vocational skill courses on handloom for self-employment or getting the opportunity to do jobs in the textile industry.
6. Departmental skill program: The various department of the college takes the initiative to organize a workshop for practical skill and hands-on training for skill development such as fish and fisheries by the Zoology Department, cultivation of mushrooms by the Department of Botany, Preparation of cosmetics by Chemistry Department, etc.
7. Spoken and literary skills: The department associated with language and literature such as Arabic, Assamese, and English department organizes some courses like spoken courses, and courses on grammar and vocabulary to develop communication skills. 8. Career Counselling: Career Counselling helps students with resume writing, interview preparation, and job searching and develops professional skills. 9. Parliamentary skill: Parliamentary skill development of the student by organizing debates, symposium workshops, and seminars on different topics. These can help the students to develop a variety of communication and behavioural skills that will be useful in their future careers. 10. Writing and communication skills: Students require strong writing and communication skills for every purpose. Students can develop these skills by participating in writing-intensive courses, and essay competitions, and by participating in activities such as debate clubs, public speaking events, and student publications like college magazines, wall magazines, etc. 11. Laboratory and research experience: The colleges offer laboratory facilities for practicals and carry out project work/research opportunities that allow students to gain practical skills in scientific experimentation, data analysis, and critical thinking. 12. Personal development: The colleges offer personal development programs to help students build their confidence, resilience, and interpersonal skills. This may include workshops on mindfulness, leadership, and emotions. 13. Collaborative projects: Collaborative projects, such as group assignments and team-based research projects can help students develop collaboration and teamwork skills, which are highly valued by employers. 14. Interdisciplinary projects: Collaborating with students from different disciplines can help students develop teamwork, problem-solving, and leadership skills. The colleges offer interdisciplinary projects that allow students to apply their knowledge and skills in new and creative ways. <http://www.westgoalparacollege.ac.in/upload/facility/1684826390.pdf>

18.Appropriate integration of Indian Knowledge system (teaching in Indian Language, culture, using online course)

The integration, preservation, and knowledge of the community, its residents, and its language, culture, and tradition are all very important to West Goalpara College. Due to its location in southern Assam's Goalpara district, the college is home to members of several castes and religious communities, particularly minorities, as well as other communities. Everyone in the neighbourhood lives honourably, with dignity, in the spirit of brotherhood, and with tolerance. The Assamese, Arabic, History, and Political Science departments in particular take the initiative and are actively involved in studying, participating, cooperating, and developing these communities with regard to language, culture, heritage, tradition, and knowledge. The college's professors put together a variety of programmes for minorities such as the Garo, Boro, Rabha, Hajong, and Muslims. The faculties also contribute to edited publications, book chapters, articles, and articles on various communities' cultures, languages, viewpoints, educational systems, difficulties, and needs. Additionally, professors are affiliated with a variety of socially conscious groups, like the Char-Chapori Sahitya Parishad, the Development of the Hajong Community, the Rabha Development Society, etc. <http://www.westgoalparacollege.ac.in/upload/facility/1684826441.pdf>

19.Focus on Outcome based education (OBE):Focus on Outcome based education (OBE):

Outcome-based education (OBE) is a student-centred approach to education that emphasizes learning outcomes and measures the success of education in terms of student achievement. Outcome-based education (OBE) focuses on the results or outcomes that students should achieve rather than the process of learning itself. These outcomes are often specific, measurable, and observable indicators of learning, and they vary depending on the subject matter, learning level, and instructional approach. Teaching-learning outcomes are the desired knowledge, skills, and attitudes that students should acquire as a result of the teaching and learning process. Generally, at the time of framing and designing the curriculum, the objectives and outcomes are kept in mind. If the aims and objectives are mentioned in the syllabus then it becomes easy to exercise that syllabus for fulfilling the outcomes. Gauhati University is also not far from this and indicates the objectives, especially in Choice Based Credit Systems (CBCS) courses in all subjects. The syllabi of CBCS courses mention all the objectives of each paper in every subject and specify the learning points to teachers as well as to students. The general objectives and their outcomes of the program coincides with the objectives of education and may be termed as program outcomes (PO) and West Goalpara College promises to fulfil all these objectives and outcomes. The general objectives of a program include knowledge, understanding, communication skill, thinking development, social development, development of leadership quality, character and personality development, development of moral and ethical values, development of patriotism and responsibility toward the nation, national and international understanding, development of scientific knowledge and temper, environment and sustainability, consciousness to the health and hygiene, development of critical thinking, development of the habit of hard work, physical and mental development, etc. Moreover, every subject has some specific objectives, and fulfilling those points has some outcome and may be known as program specific outcome (PSO) or program-oriented outcome. Some of the PSO of literature subjects are reading, writing, understanding, communication, grammatical concept, etc. Similarly, program-specific outcome (PSO) of social science departments develops civic knowledge, political views, philosophical views, historical views, economic views, geographical views, etc. Furthermore, each subject of sciences develops chemical knowledge, physical concepts of matter, ideas, and knowledge of animals, concepts of plants, and mathematical views and applications. The college is very much concerned about all the discipline-specific outcomes and takes the necessary steps. Apart from these, the college focuses on each learning point specified in every paper of the syllabus of all subjects, which may be called course outcomes. The West Goalpara College is the centre for excellence to fulfil all the objectives and outcomes among the students. The college focuses on the following outcome-based education as mentioned below:

1. Define the outcomes: The teacher of the college identifies the specific outcomes for students to achieve which are measurable, observable, and achievable. The teacher uses Bloom's Taxonomy to categorize the outcomes and create a hierarchy of learning objectives.
2. Align the teaching with the outcomes: After defining the outcomes, teaching and learning activities are aligned with them, and ensure that the activities and assessments designed are aligned with the set outcomes. This will help to ensure that the teachers are focusing on the desired results.
3. Develop assessment strategies: The teacher develops the assessment strategies that align with the learning outcomes. These assessments should be designed to measure the extent to which students have achieved the outcomes.
4. Use rubrics: The teacher uses the rubrics to assess student's work against the defined learning outcomes. Rubrics provide clear and specific criteria for assessing students' work, which makes the assessment process more objective.
5. Provide feedback: Provide students with feedback on their progress towards achieving the learning objectives. This feedback should be specific, actionable, and tied to the learning objectives. It can be given in various formats, such as written comments, rubrics, or verbal feedback.
6. Continuously evaluate and adjust: Continuously evaluate how well students are achieving the learning objectives and teachers adjust teaching methods accordingly. If students are not achieving the desired outcomes, teachers modify their teaching approach or change the assessments to better align with the learning objectives. 7. Involve students: Involve students in the learning process and encourage them to take ownership of their learning. This can be done by setting clear expectations and providing opportunities for students to reflect on their learning and progress toward the outcomes. 8. Collaborate with other educators: The teacher of various departments collaborate with other educators and resource persons to develop shared outcomes and assessments. This helps to ensure that all students are receiving a Page 14/73 12-07-2023 03:08:02 Annual Quality Assurance Report of WEST GOALPARACOLLEGE consistent and high-quality education. ## 20.Distance education/online education:

Since the present workplace climate only requires experts and experienced workers in all areas of the business, the institution places a strong emphasis on skill-oriented courses in addition to curricular activities. The following skill-development actions and courses are carried out by the West Goalpara College to achieve this: defining clear goals, finding resources, practising frequently, getting feedback, and embracing failure. Additionally, with an internet connection, students may frequently access course materials and communicate with teachers and other students from any location. Due to the growing interest and demand from the local people, West Goalpara College has two distance learning facilities that offer seats in higher education. The Gauhati University Institute of Distance and Open Learning (GU IDOL) at Gauhati University offers distance learning courses through the college as a component of this. The postgraduate (PG) level is covered in this course in a variety of areas, including Assamese, English, Economics, History, and Mathematics. Further, the college is affiliated with Krishna Kanta Handique State Open University (KKHSOU), Rani, Guwahati, and offers a Master of Arts (MA) in Assamese, Political Science, Education, and English. While the Covid-19 epidemic is ongoing, the college also offers lessons online. These classes were held using several platforms, including Cisco WebEx, Google Meet, and Zoom App. In addition to this, the faculties mandated the use of other tools and methods like WhatsApp, Email, etc. to deliver study materials and receive assignments in order to maintain the teaching-learning processes. <http://www.westgoalparacollege.ac.in/upload/facility/1684826258.pdf>

6.2 - Strategy Development and Deployment

6.2.1 - The institutional Strategic/ perspective plan is effectively deployed

The West Goalpara College has set a few institutional strategic goals that are intended to be attained through several perspective plans to fulfil the mission and vision. These objectives, which include creating effective teaching and learning processes, upholding discipline, and fostering students overall development through participation, as well as employee advancement and welfare, increasing placements, promptly resolving grievances, alumni interaction, and outreach initiatives, are based on the needs of the students and the institute as a whole. The activity that was effectively carried out during this period by the strategic strategy was developing an efficient teaching-learning procedure. This session resulted in a revolution in the teaching-learning process. The teaching-learning process was launched in "online mode" for the first time. There were a number of difficulties for both educators and students. Teachers in the classroom have to acquire a range of online teaching methods. But they stepped up to the plate and each one of them readied themselves by taking part in faculty development programs, training sessions, and webinars. As a result, the class proceeded as planned, with regular student evaluations through tests, quizzes, assignments, etc. In order to understand the problems they were having, feedback from the students was also requested throughout this period. The evaluation criteria were also modified to assist the students in handling the challenge.

In order to ensure transparency, efficiency, and timeliness in dealing with internal examination and other related grievances, West Goalpara College has established a mechanism that outlines the steps and procedures that are followed in addressing grievances.

1. Grievance Redressal Cell: The Grievance Redressal Cell (GRC) receives and resolves all forms of complaints including internal examinations-related complaints.
2. Grievance Submission: The college sets an offline complaint cum suggestion box within the campus to receive complaints and open the box in intervals of two days. Moreover, grievances are also received in detail through WhatsApp, Email, and online portals.
3. Investigation: The members of GRC directly investigate a complaint or sometimes set up an investigation committee comprising faculty members, staff, and students to look into the grievances.
4. Use of Technology: The classrooms and the entire college campus are under CCTV surveillance and it makes the grievance process more efficient. Besides, the online portal helps in filing grievances, tracking their status, and receiving updates.
5. Timelines for Resolution: All the grievances are addressed within a week including investigation, review, and necessary solutions.
6. Appeals Process: The complainant can appeal the process if dissatisfied with the decision of the grievance redressal cell. The GRC reviews the grievances with further investigation within a week.
7. Record-Keeping: The College maintains records of all complaints and their resolutions for future reference and analysis.
8. Feedback: Feedback is collected from the students on the effectiveness of the grievance redressal mechanism for further improvements in the process.

All the faculties are very much aware of the program outcome (PO) of each discipline, the program-specific outcome (PSO) of each subject, and the course outcomes (CO) of each course mentioned in the syllabus. To be aware the PO, PSO, and CO, college have taken the following measures: 1. Identification of Outcomes: The faculties of each department have identified the learning objectives such as the program outcomes, program-specific outcomes, and course outcomes of their respective subjects and courses for their further use. 2. Preparation of Outcomes: After identifying the objectives like PO, PSO, and CO a set of outcomes is prepared by each department in terms of general, specific, and Bloom's taxonomy level and usage throughout the session. 3. 2.6.2 - Attainment of Programme outcomes and course outcomes are evaluated by the institution.

The attainment of program outcomes and course outcomes is evaluated by the college through a variety of methods, including assessments, examinations, projects, presentations, and other types of assignments.

Program outcomes are typically broad learning goals that describe what students are able to do after completing a program of study. Examples of program outcomes include critical thinking, effective communication, and ethical decision-making. These outcomes are usually evaluated through a combination of assessments that are designed to measure students' mastery of the knowledge and skills associated with each outcome.

Course outcomes, on the other hand, are more specific learning goals that describe what students should be able to do after completing a particular course. Course outcomes are usually aligned with program outcomes and are evaluated through a variety of assessments, such as quizzes, exams, papers, projects, and presentations.

The college uses various tools and techniques to assess the attainment of program outcomes and course outcomes, such as rubrics, surveys, standardized tests, and other forms of assessment. The results of these assessments are used to evaluate the effectiveness of the program and course design and to make improvements where necessary to ensure that students are achieving the desired learning outcomes.

6.2 - Strategy Development and Deployment

6.2.1 - The institutional Strategic/ perspective plan is effectively deployed

The West Goalpara College has set a few institutional strategic goals that are intended to be attained through several perspective plans to fulfil the mission and vision. These objectives, which include creating effective teaching and learning processes, upholding discipline, and fostering students overall development through participation, as well as employee advancement and welfare, increasing placements, promptly resolving grievances, alumni interaction, and outreach initiatives, are based on the needs of the students and the institute as a whole. The activity that was effectively carried out during this period by the strategic strategy was developing an efficient teaching-learning procedure. This session resulted in a revolution in the teaching-learning process. The teaching-learning process was launched in "online mode" for the first time. There were a number of difficulties for both educators and students. Teachers in the classroom have to acquire a range of online teaching methods. But they stepped up to the plate and each one of them readied themselves by taking part in faculty development programs, training sessions, and webinars. As a result, the class proceeded as planned, with regular student evaluations through tests, quizzes, assignments, etc. In order to understand the problems they were having, feedback from the students was also requested throughout this period. The evaluation criteria were also modified to assist the students in handling the challenge.
